

THE MORNING APPEAL.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 18

Nevada Again Attacked

Eastern papers are advancing the idea that Nevada should be made a part of Utah in order that her citizens be deprived of their representation in congress and the silver cause suffer thereby. While the East is so lavish in its advice, let us suggest that Delaware be absorbed by New York state. There is no state more corrupt in its political life than Delaware, and in point of population, all that can be said against Nevada can be brought to bear against that state, while in point of intellectuality the white population of Nevada shows the smallest percentage of illiterates of any people in the Union, and her senators and congressmen have always stood the equals of the greatest minds of our nation. Nevada will remain a state while Delaware is accorded the rights of statehood.—Ogden Standard.

To be Changed

It has been suggested and the idea endorsed by some of the leading journals of the country that beginning with the year 1900 that the system of computing time by month be changed. The proposition is to have thirteen months instead of twelve, each to have twenty eight days, except the last to have twenty nine and in leap year thirty. This would make the same day of the week fall on the same day of the month throughout the year. There is no question but what such a change would be a great benefit to the business world, but a transition from the old system to the new would be decidedly awkward for awhile.

The Kermeen Boy.

Walter Kermeen, the boy who is bound over to appear before the Grand Jury on a charge of attempted arson, will be much better off for awhile at least, if he is not out on bail. It is clear that the boy has a mania for his work of incendiaryism, and if another fire should occur while he is at liberty, even were he innocent of it, the boy would be regarded as responsible for the fire, and with an excited community it would go very hard with him. In case of bail his father would do well to take him away from Carson until his trial comes off.

Death of Wm. Bottsford.

Wm. Bottsford, who is well known here, having served a term as Sheriff of Ormsby county, died at Alida Valley, Esmeralda county, last week. Mr. Bottsford was but a short distance from home when he suffered a stroke of paralysis and died before he could reach the house. He was a brother of Mrs. E. L. Buckingham, who lost her husband not long ago in San Francisco.

THE KERMEEN CASE.

The Preliminary Examination Before Justice Hawthorne.

The Court room was crowded yesterday morning to listen to the preliminary examination in the case of Walter Kermeen, charged with breaking into the Central School building with the intent to commit arson.

Ex-Sheriff Ulrich, the first witness, told the story of his arresting the defendant on Monday morning in the Central School building about twenty minutes of five. The defendant pried up a window and got into the room with a bag of kindlings and a bottle partly filled with coal oil. Witness saw defendant crawl into the window, and arrested him. His story was the same as published in the daily papers of the city at the time of the arrest.

During the testimony of the witness, Mr. and Mrs. Kermeen came into the Court room and took seats a little back of Walter. The accused turned his head away after he first saw them, and hiding his eyes with his hands began to cry.

The defendant had claimed to witness that a man named Bill Hopper had pulled him out of his bed and sent him to fire the school house, not giving him time to put on his shoes or hat.

[An old man named John Hopper lives near the Kermeens and is a friend of the family. Afterwards he said it was Pete Hopper.]

Witness was cross-examined by Mr. Woodburn on behalf of the defense, but nothing of importance was elicited, except that the defendant during the minute and a half between the time he got in the window and the time he was arrested, made no attempt to light a match. Witness found loose matches on his person. Window was four feet and a half from the ground. Witness thought defendant got in by means of the rake. Setting its teeth down on the baseboard and water table of the school house would make it a good step, leaving but three feet eight inches from there to the window sill. Witness merely advanced this as a theory. He did not find the rake. About three weeks before when watching he saw a young lad come to the school house at midnight and attempt to raise the window with a rake handle. The window was nailed down and he could not raise it. He was near the window and saw it was a boy with gray clothes on and a turban hat. Witness went round on the outside to catch him, but he got away. He then fixed a board so if any one came there it would knock the board down.

About 2 o'clock on the morning of the arrest the board was knocked down.

Mr. Dobbs corroborated Mr. Ulrich's testimony and the bag of kindling wood was placed in evidence. Witness had found the rake under the window placed teeth down on the baseboard of the building, so as to make a step, in the position Mr. Ulrich had supposed it to be.

Constable Patterson testified in regard to the boy giving a wrong name and the testimony for the State closed. Justice Hawthorne then bound the defendant over before the Grand Jury and acceded to Woodburn's request that the bail be not raised.

His father last evening decided not to bail his son out, as he was quite comfortable in the jail.

Vest Scores the Republicans.

In the Senate Friday Vest of Missouri called up the Dingley bill for the purpose of making remarks. He said he appreciated he was talking of a dead issue and would not allude to it if many well meaning people were not urging congress to take upon this measure. He regarded the Dingley bill as one of the most remarkable pieces of legislation ever presented.

Vest spoke vehemently against the protective theory and declared McKinley's election had not brought prosperity. He asserted his election was a parody on free institutions. He hoped to see the investigation, for he shared the belief expressed by Senator Chandler, that circumstances leading up to the St. Louis convention were honeycombed with fraud. He declared prosperity would never come with an addition of tariff taxes and a greater volume of money was the only relief.

Vest paid a strong tribute to William J. Bryan, and pointed out six million votes cast for him.

The Airship Again.

The Long Valley Indians say they have seen the much talked of airship in the day time. One Indian said to a Gazette reporter this morning: "Him big as a car, and goes all same as bird." The Gazette man asked if he had not heard about Johnson Sides lecture on fire-water and if he did not think it wrong for Indians to drink whiskey. "Me no drink," said Jim, "Me beap see 'em all same as see you now. You think I drink cause I see 'em airship. I see 'em, my mahala ehe see 'em, my papoos see 'em too and other Injun he see 'em. No all drunk. My mahala she drink some time, but no drunk when she see 'em." While we don't question Jim's vision, or doubt but that he saw something, we confess a doubt about it being an airship.—Gazette.

A Fight Arranged.

New York, Dec. 17.—Articles for a fight between James J. Corbett and Robert Fitzsimmons were submitted to and approved by the first named at Jersey City today.

The articles call for a finish fight for a purse of $15,000, the winner to take all.

As a guarantee that Fitzsimmons and Corbett will be at the ring side at the date set for the contest, each man must post $2,500 with Richard K. Fox, or Al Smith, the New York sporting man. This is to go to Stuart in case either fails to appear. Stuart agrees to post $5,000 that he will pull off the fight, the sum to be equally divided between the two men if he fails to pull off the fight on the date named. He will place the sum of $10,000 in the hands of either Fox or Smith thirty days before the date set for the contest, and if the fight does not come off through his failure, he will forfeit this money, $5,000 going to each, Fitzsimmons and Corbett. George Siler of Chicago is named as Referee.

The fight is set for March 17th, 1897, between 7 o'clock in the morning and 11:45 at night. The place will be named February 17th. Stewart reserves all privileges.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the firm, heretofore known as Catton & Robinson, has this day dissolved partnership by mutual consent. Mr. Catton will collect all money due and pay all bills.
